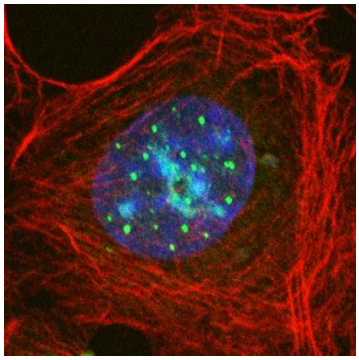
Ubi CODE

European Research Training Network to decipher the ubiquitin code



As of 1st of January, the ITN project UbiCODE has started ! The network is coordinated by Dr Manuel S. Rodríguez (ITAV-CNRS) and co-coordinated by Dr Rosa Barrio at CIC bioGUNE. The UPV/EHU (Leioa) collaborates as Associated Partner in the project.

The key scientific mission of the programme is to understand how protein modification with Ub/Ubls is generated (written), regulated (edited), recognised (read) and connected with effector functions (interpreted) to regulate cellular plasticity.

Each beneficiary institution will host an Early Stage Researcher for 36 months to decipher the ubiquitin code. Students will acquire scientific skills in experimental biomedical sciences in the field of Ubiquitin from expert laboratories at the fore-front of the field, in a highly stimulating and collaborative environment.
